sketchon was fully dressed, and on black broadcloth coat and striped trousers, had saddle-bags with three new pairs of drawers and two new pairs of gray socks, three boots—two new, one old, the old boot was for a No. eight foot and had a hole cut as if the great toe of that foot had been sore. The boots had not been worn much. An odd saddle, the horn of which had been broken and mended with iron, was found near the skeleton, with an iron saddle-pipe. There were gray hairs on the saddle-bag and girth. In the pockets were a small, worn, horn-handled pocket-knife, the small blade of which had been placed down to make a screw-driver. The place where the body has been found is called Robinson Peak, and is about ten miles northwest from Coleman.

Corianna.

Special to the Herald.
CORIANNA, December 2.—J. S. Parks, aged 24 years, for some time jail guard here and lately working as waiter, married a neighbor. Yesterday she got from the County Court $600, which she turned over to her young husband, with which he immediately decamped, and has not been heard from since. The police are on his track and expect to lay hands on him soon.

Reappointment of C. S. Morse, of our city, as Clerk of the Supreme Court, is received with satisfaction here.

CORIANNA, December 3.—A man named James Green from Madison, who has been sick for some time, was found wandering in blood and stiff in death this morning at the Horton House. There were three other men sleeping in the room and were not awakened by the victim. The coroner's jury found a verdict that he came to his death by his own hand in cutting across his left arm with a razor and severing an artery, whereby he bled to death. The deceased had been very dependent for some days, and had tried to procure laudanum to commit suicide. Lack of money and ill health, together with the untoward death of his wife, were the causes of his act, as far as could be ascertained.

It has been ascertained that Parks, who ran away with his aged wife's money, was followed by two girls who were boarding with her along with him. The girls are orphans and have been working in a millinery store here.

Eastland.

Special to the Herald.
EASTLAND, December 2.—Albert Chestnut, a young man who has been making Eastland his home for some time past, committed suicide by taking a large dose of morphine to-day. Cause of death is unknown. It is said he was highly connected and one of the first families of Little Rock.

Coal is still being developed in this vicinity, and the excitement continues to wax warm.

Mr. Hoxie's special passed east at 7 o'clock this evening.

Weather dry and exhilarating.

Fort Worth.

Special to the Herald.
FORT WORTH, November 30.—This afternoon eight telegraph hands were returning from their dinner to their work on a hand car. When four miles south of the city they were thrown from a trestle twelve feet high by the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, a road by a rail being out of place. The car upset, throwing the men from it, and the car fell on them in the ravine below. All of the men were hurt, but the following were seriously and it is feared fatally injured: Thomas Joyce, one leg broken and the other sprained; Mike Shay, left arm broken and right forearm mashed; Billy Tom Frost, hip or back broken, and Henry Burns badly mashed. They were brought to the city late this afternoon and are receiving medical attention.

Greenville.

Special to the Herald.
GREENVILLE, December 2.—The North Texas Conference convened on the 30th, with Bishop Kavanaugh presiding. The Bishop is in fine health and spirits. The health of the preachers is good. The reports from the members of the Conference are good. About one hundred and twenty preachers and forty lay delegates are present. There are quite a number of visitors. Great harmony so far has marked the deliberations of the conference. This morning Dr. C. C. Kelly, of Nashville, Tenn., of Kentucky, Dr. John, of the Texas Christian Advocate, Rev. Mr. Rankin, of the Bible Society, arrived, were introduced and invited to meet the members of the Society.

Southwestern Conference meets this evening at the Baptist Church. Mrs. Julia Hays, the President, is present, and will preside. Four members of the Conference have died during the past year but there are no fears of a scarcity of laborers in the vineyard, since several young men are expected to enter the ministry.

Business good.

Business generally brisk and the weather favorable.

GREENVILLE, December 3.—The Conference opened this morning at 9 o'clock, with Bishop Kavanaugh presiding. The Bishop has a family in that town. Officers followed the flying couple, but this far they failed to catch them. The young lady belongs to one of the best families here, and is about 19 years old, whilst the girl is about 16 years old. The young lady is a native of this city, and the girl is a native of this city.
